

UNSW Student Life

University Sustainability

Insights from a UNSW student / staff alumna who founded UNSW's green campus program in 1995 and went on to found and lead Harvard's Green Campus Initiative for the past 9 years with amazing results

Speaker: Leith Sharp

By 2008, under her leadership, Harvard had the largest green campus organisation in the world and was a recognized global leader in campus sustainability, receiving the highest national green campus ratings from the Princeton Review, the Sustainable Endowments Institute, the Sierra Club and Grist. Leith has a bachelor of engineering (environmental) from UNSW and a Master of Education (human development & psychology) from Harvard University.

<http://www.green.harvard.edu/>

WHAT: Public Presentation with questions

WHEN: Tuesday 20th October, 1:00 pm

WHERE: Law Theatre, The Law Building, UNSW

RSVP: Preferred – Not essential Alex Surace: a.surace@arc.unsw.edu.au

INFO: <http://www.unsw.envirocollective.com/unswsustainability>

We know enough about the problem and we have lots of great ideas for making progress, so why is it so hard to get our universities to become sustainable?

Come along to this free public presentation to learn how change was achieved at Harvard University in the United States, and to start thinking of ways to make our institutions here in Australia leaders in environmental sustainability within our communities.

